Hands that Rock is a 501c3 non-profit organization that provides massage therapy at music festivals and special events to raise money for programs concerned with music education, performance, related resources and outreach for individuals and groups in need. Our fundraising efforts additionally address community initiatives associated with such outreach programs and groups to include environmental, social and health-related concerns to help create a suitable environment for the creation and performance of music.

Research proves that music programming has a positive effect on a child.
